Who should participate?

The Masterclass is designed for biotech founders and future industry leaders, providing hands-on training to develop both professional and personal skills. Whether you're launching a startup or advancing within an established company, this program equips you with the tools to succeed and kick-start your career in the life sciences industry.

Taught by experts

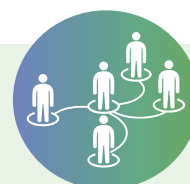

You'll learn from 40+ seasoned life sciences entrepreneurs, experienced lecturers, and professional coaches. These experts are not just instructors - they are your gateway to a valuable and experienced biotech network. They will be available to answer your questions and offer guidance throughout your journey.

To empower mission-driven entrepreneurship

For startup founders and life science professionals

Collaborative learning

Participants will work in teams to develop their own business cases, culminating in a final presentation to a jury of experts. The most promising startup with the best business plan will be awarded the BioBusiness Masterclass Award and will receive € 25,000.

Costs

The participation fee is € 3,000 (excl. VAT) for individuals who bring in a (draft) business plan. For other life science and biotech professionals the fee is € 9,000 (excl. VAT). These fees include study materials, meals, and overnight stays.

Complete your registration before 15th December 2025.

The masterclass does not receive funding from any (governmental) organization. About two third of the organization costs are taken by a BioBusiness Masterclass 2004 Alumnus, to be considered as a donation to the Dutch Biotech industry. Let's make a better world!
